

Imagine climbing to the top of Mount Everest, flying a kite in Beijing, or traveling through time and encountering famous people from such periods as the Jazz Age or the Harlem Renaissance. No boarding pass required! All of these educational trips are possible through World Book resources. They're fun, very engaging, and best of all they allow young learners to travel to amazing places and give them remarkable experiences, without ever leaving home.

In this month's World Book Wired, we are sharing some awesome adventures to take the learning further this summer.

AWESOME ADVENTURES

360-DEGREE PHOTOS

Use panoramic photos and videos of locations all around the world to make learning more engaging. Accessible from Student, you won't have to wait in a single line!

VIRTUAL VACATIONS

Ayo the aardvark leads readers through kid-friendly sights in world-class cities. Ayo's Awesome Adventures serve both as travel guides and as virtual vacations to faraway places!

LOST & FOUND

Go back in time with siblings Perri and Archer as they encounter famous people from the Golden Age of Piracy to the Jazz Age in our Lost & Found fiction series.

From Seafloor Secrets to Galaxy Volleyball, get instant access to curriculum-aligned math and science games created to engage elementary and middle school students and assist teachers using hybrid, blended, and distance learning models. Our gamification guide features our list of games, how to find them, and pre- and post-discussion questions!

UPCOMING FREE WEBINARS

Beyond Devices
Thursday, July 8th
(2:30 p.m. CST)

eBook New Releases
Friday, July 16th
(10:30 a.m. CST)

Beyond Reference
Friday, July 30th
(3:30 p.m. CST)

HOT DIGGITY DOG!

This July marks National Hot Dog Month, a full 31 days that celebrates one of America's most iconic foods. Because it is such a vibrant part of Americana, #nationalhotdogmonth is celebrated the same month that America celebrates its independence. So, grab your dog and favorite toppings and add your own flair to this fast-food treat!

BASTILLE DAY

Bastille Day celebrates the storming of Bastille in Paris, France which signaled the start of the French Revolution. It is the national day of France, which is celebrated on July 14 each year and is called La Fête Nationale. Countries around the world have organized events and parties to commemorate the day—do you know how you're going to celebrate?