HAPPY Thanksgiving

While giving thanks is something we strive for all year long, November is the perfect time of year to help students cultivate an "attitude of gratitude."

In this month's World Book Wired, we've compiled some easy, gratitude-focused activities, many of which can be adapted to fit any grade level, to help teachers create a culture of Thanksgiving in their classrooms.

ENGAGING ACTIVITIES

"Gratitude" Jar
As part of the morning routine, have students write down something specific they are thankful for on a strip of paper and put it in the "gratitude" message jar.

Photo Collage
Using pictures from home, have students glue items they are grateful for (pets, people, home) on a piece of cardboard. Encourage sharing!

Harvest Bookmark
Kids will love creating their very own harvest bookmark. Download the pattern, glue the pieces together, and keep your place in your favorite storybook.

New Matching! games have been added to Early Learning. From sea animals to the rain forest, help your young learners make connections or simply practice basic skills.

WORLD KINDNESS DAY

Choose Kindness

#WorldKindnessDay is celebrated on Nov 12th. On this day, encourage students to always try and be kind, do a good deed, or share a story of kindness.

“Thanks”giving

This is the time of year when we pause from our busy lives and gather to give thanks. Here at World Book we are grateful for educators like you. Happy Thanksgiving!

ALL-STAR SPORTS

November is a terrific month for sports! Whether they’re catching touchdowns or slamming dunks, it takes truly special athletes to be superstars. This collection delves into the stories behind legendary athletes and how they have influenced their sport.
